

FACE-IT announces the launch of their website

FACE-IT, the newly-formed action group set up to protect the best of the area in and around Fleet and Crookham, has announced the launch of its new website.

Compiled and launched in just one week, the website contains a wide range of information and sets out to inform users about the organisation and their objectives; the local environment and landscape; the current and future infrastructure challenges faced in the West of Fleet; the continued threat as Fleet and Crookham becomes 'Hart's sacrificial lamb'; the actions and communications of the group and an invitation for people to join FACE-IT and keep you up to date with actions and progress.

The website also has access to comments on Twitter and Facebook as well as a number of quick links to Hart District Planning, the SHLAA and the Hart LDF. Visitors can view recently posted articles and comments by the FACE-IT team as well the latest reported news which currently features responsible behaviour in the countryside, the environment and the road traffic analysis recently conducted in Crondall Road.

FACE-IT Chairman, Brian Watt, announced that the website will form a key information and marketing tool as well as the 'go-to' place for matters concerning the over development of Fleet and Crookham.

The website can be viewed at www.faceit-group.org.
